

Newsletter 8

ICOLD: 80 years old and still young !

On November 21st 2018, ICOLD celebrated its 80th birthday in the picturesque Palais des Congrès de Paris, on the Champs Elysées. 400 persons from 45 countries gathered around ICOLD offices, members and other high level persons from all over the world for the historic celebration, which was enriched with another important event at UNESCO, Building for Water and Energy Resilience.

The celebration was also the occasion for officially launching the "World Declaration on Hydropower and Dams for African Sustainable Development", published by ICOLD, and joined by the World Energy Council, the African Union, the Union of Producers, Transporters and Distributors of Electric Power in Africa, the ICOLD and the IIA.

In the special issue of the Dams newsletter we highlight the most important elements of the historic celebration under the general theme "Dams for human sustainable development". After the opening ceremony by officials, two round tables addressed water social subjects (water and energy).

The variety of the presentations from different continents shows how ICOLD, after 80 years of sharing experiences, is continuing to work for human sustainable development by helping the world to manage water resources.

80 years of ICOLD - perspective addresses - p.10; 83 - World Tables on Water Resilience - p.11
 World Tables on Energy Challenges - p.12 - Water Resilience - a paradigm for development - p.13
 World Resilience Journal in Paris - p.14 - World Declaration - Design and implementation to achieve Sustainable Development - p.14 - Dams and Resilience for Sustainable Development - p.15