

Newsletter 16

The Damis Newsletter
MAY 2011 # 16

Climate Change: Benefits of Dams & Reservoirs

By Robert May

The benefits of dams and reservoirs are often overlooked in the context of climate change. In the context of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, dams and reservoirs can play a significant role in reducing greenhouse gas emissions and increasing the resilience of water resources.

Contents:

- Editorial
- ICOLD News
 - ICOLD Invites DA Damians to the 2011 World Dam Summit in Mexico 02
 - ICOLD Participates in the 2011 World Water Forum in Mexico 04
 - ICOLD Celebrates 50th Anniversary 06
 - News about Dams
 - Energy Storage and Dams 08
 - How to Use an Dam 10
- ICOLD Activities
 - ICOLD 2011 Conference 03

ICOLD Invites DA Damians to the 2011 World Dam Summit in Mexico

The International Commission on Large Dams (ICOLD) is pleased to announce that it will be hosting the 2011 World Dam Summit in Mexico from October 15-19, 2011. The summit will be held in Mexico City and will focus on the theme "Dams for a Sustainable Future".

ICOLD Celebrates 50th Anniversary

ICOLD is celebrating its 50th anniversary in 2011. The organization was founded in 1961 and has since become a leading international organization in the field of dams and reservoirs.

News about Dams

Energy Storage and Dams

Dams and reservoirs can play a significant role in energy storage and production. They can store water for use during periods of high demand and generate electricity during periods of low demand.

How to Use an Dam

Dams and reservoirs can be used for a variety of purposes, including water supply, irrigation, flood control, and recreation. They can also be used for energy storage and production.

ICOLD 2011 Conference

ICOLD is hosting a conference in Mexico City from October 15-19, 2011. The conference will focus on the theme "Dams for a Sustainable Future" and will feature a number of presentations and discussions on the latest developments in the field of dams and reservoirs.