WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

C.B. Verrill

Despite our frequent work, although generally not adequately acknowledged, the practical aspects that address the modern world of today through operational conditions, the time used to take notes and other activities is too minimal. On the other hand, the importance of the dam project for the recipient makes it an effort of planning the working and support of activity as a whole, and it is important that there have always been a great deal of attention to the details of the work, increasing the production, increasing navigation, producing electric power, and providing safety work in the area. In the past, the work has been evaluating every aspect of human activities under the supervision of the maintenance of environmental considerations and sustainability development. Dams have also been subjected to this scrutiny and some cases of water pollution have been used to illustrate the use of water.

general. We consider this to be not acceptable, and that these receptors should be treated as such.

On the other hand, we also note that the opportunity of dam projects has been committed to the development and improvement of the national social and environmental conditions. Accordingly, we are eager to take any measure to improve every aspect of a dam's implementation and to plan to improve everything that must be done in this respect.

The newsletter you have in hand will be published quarterly and I hope it will give you a good idea of the many items contributing to the world of dam building from better and to answer with which water providers like this all over the world that recently appeared in the English-speaking media.

Beyond that, it is worth it to read a communication for between the National Commission and the Central Office of the ICOLD as a whole and increase the efficiency in the world. I believe you will be particularly pleased by the Chinese committee for writing and preparing, and that the articles are published in the subject of dams in the Three Gorges Dam, and we are all very glad to contribute to every dam project in the world. We are also pleased that the dam project, hoping that the newsletter will be able to provide more such information, would you a complete reading.
